NEWS UPDATE – JULY 2018

We understand that the immense development of business activities is necessary to be in compliance with the applicable law of a country. For the case of Indonesia, the formulation of law and understanding of business actors to such is critical, especially when it comes to the protection of intangible rights, such as the intellectual property. However, it is inevitable that understanding law and its legal text may be quite challenging for those who are not familiar.

Luckily, in K&K Advocates, our attorneys, Mrs. Risti Wulansari and Mr. Bhredipta Socarana, in collaboration with Thomson Reuters, a renowned international publisher has recently published writings that remove the difficulties of understanding the IP-related law. Through the writings, our attorneys have dissected and extracted the information pertaining IP-related law and deliver it in a readable but comprehensive manner.

The writings may be accessed through the following URL:

- IP in business transactions: Indonesia overview –
